Trial Races

The trial races are races under the same conditions as the final. The track management determines the number of trial races, with no more than ten horses per race. The ten fastest times recorded during the trials will be the qualifiers to the final. The times of the horses in separate fields are determined by the Electric Timer. In the event of two horses racing in the same trial receive identical times, the qualifiers will be determined by the order of finish posted by the race officials. If a tie exists for any reason, the horses involved shall draw lots to determine which will participate in the final.
